Richmond will have an opportunity of bearing on Tuesday evening that beautiful singer M'dlle De Lussan, who has been creating so much talk among northern and western journals as compared with Patti. The New York Tribune styles her "the rising prima donna," and says "she has a soprano of exquisite quality and a great deal of it. She looks like Madame Patti, and has youth, talent, and beauty." The American Art-Journal and New York World are loud in their praises of her, and when she is added as an attraction to the celebrated New York Philharmonic Ciub in one concert, no lover of music or art in one concert, no lover of music or art should fell to hear it. The cost of these entertainments in our larger cities is $1.50 per ticket; but the Mozart Association, in the interest of its members and music, places the cost of admission at such a price. Richmond have reached the determination that they will send a first-clear delegation. that the hail should be packed, as there is little doubt it will be.
